DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communications: RCE filed on 10/22/07.
2. Claims 14 – 17, 19 and 21 – 39 are pending in the case. Claims 14, 23, 24, 27, and 28 are independent.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

3. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/22/07 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claims 14 – 17, 19, 21, 22, 29, 34 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.
6. Claims 14 – 17, 19, 21, 22, 29, 34 and 35 recite an algorithm or abstract idea employed in a process that is not embodied in, operates on, transforms, or otherwise involves another class of statutory subject matter, i.e., a machine, manufacture, or composition of matter. In Diehr, the Supreme Court confirmed that a process claim reciting an algorithm could state statutory subject matter if it: (1) is tied to a machine or (2) creates or involves a composition of matter or manufacture. 12 450 U.S. at 184.

For example, processes involving mathematical algorithms used in computer technology are patentable because they claim practical applications and are tied to specific machines. However, mental processes or processes of human thinking standing alone are not patentable even if they have practical application. In other words, claimed systems that depend for their operation on human intelligence alone does not constitute patentable subject matter. See In re Comiskey, No. 2006-1286, *17 - 21, (Fed. Cir. September 20, 2007) for further analysis and the basis for this rejection.

7. Further, to expedite a complete examination of the instant application, the claims rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 (nonstatutory) above are further rejected as set forth below in anticipation of applicant amending these claims to make them statutory.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 23 – 28, 30 – 33 and 36 – 39 are allowed.
